Underweight High Yield Bonds

- Not getting paid to take risk...
- Spreads have drifted lower and are close to tightest level in 5 years

Credit spreads are the basis point difference between a US Treasury security and different credit quality security with similar maturities. The BofA Merrill Lynch Option-Adjusted Spreads (OASs) are the calculated spreads between a computed OAS index of all bonds in a given rating category and a spot Treasury curve. An OAS index is constructed using each constituent bond's OAS, weighted by market capitalization. The BofA Merrill Lynch High Yield Master II OAS uses an index of bonds that are below investment grade (those rated BB or below).
